

Memorial Day

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven.

A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down and a time to build up;

A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance;

A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;

A time to get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away;

A time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;

A time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.

Camden's Academy Tops in U.S.

By JIM MCCALL
Associated Press Writer
CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Law Enforcement Training Academy, founded in 1962, has progressed from humble beginnings to one of the top law enforcement training centers in the nation.
The academy, headed by Col. George V. Armstrong, recently put into service a mobile training unit, one of two in the United States. The other is in New Jersey.

Lt. Harold Simons, who is in charge of the mobile unit, said that any class taught at the main academy at Camden could be taught in the new training unit.

The unit, purchased with a federal grant obtained through the Arkansas Crime Commission, is a specially built trailer which houses "everything a regular classroom has except a restroom and water fountain," Simons said.

Simons said the trailer had seating space for about 30 persons. The trailer also houses facilities for showing sound movies, a speaker's platform with public address system, desks, visual teaching aids and a storage room.

"There's no reason why a person shouldn't learn just as much, or more, attending class in the unit as he would at the academy's main campus at Camden," Simons said.

Simons explained, however, that the mobile unit is not designed to take the place of the academy at Camden. He said the facility is a supplement to provide training for officers in smaller towns in the state that cannot afford to send men to Camden for a two or three-week training period.

Simons said classes were held in the unit for the first time on April 22 at Russellville. He said officers from nine police agencies in the Russellville area attended classes.

Some of the towns the unit will visit in the near future include Blytheville, Searcy, Newport and Walnut Ridge, Simons said. He said a definite schedule had not been drawn up, but a calendar would be established later.

The academy's main campus at Camden, located on a 16-acre tract donated by the Brown Construction Co., has a cafeteria, dormitory, and classroom space to accommodate 35 to 40 persons at one time, Simons said.

Classes, ranging in length from one to three weeks, are taught on a year-round basis and include such topics as narcotics, accident investigation, traffic control, courtroom procedures, civil disturbances and marksmanship, he said.

The U.S. Justice Department recently rated the academy as one of the top three such institutions in the nation.

Simons said the academy is set up as a state agency completely separate from the State Police and the Crime Commission. The State Police, however, use the academy's facilities to train new troopers, he said.

The Student wasn't sure what he should respond to the Professor's spade opening. However, the Student's general policy is to raise the Professor so he pumped to three spades in spite of his 4-3-3-3 distribution. Needless to say the Professor carried on to game.

The Professor looked over dummy for about half a second. In that brief interval he noted that there was no legitimate play for four spades while there would have been an excellent play for three no-trump. He also noted there just might be a way to make 10 tricks if the cards and the opponents would cooperate with him.

As mentioned earlier all this thought took less than half a second. The Professor thinks fast.

Then he played the deuce of diamonds from dummy. East played the four and the Professor the three.

West hauled in the trick and continued with the jack of diamonds. He had noted that the four-spot was the highest diamond played but what would you do? Could you visualize what was going to happen to you?

Now the Professor was ready to give the cards their chance to help him. He took his ace of diamonds, played a trump to dummy's ace, discarded a heart on the king of diamonds, played a trump back to his king, cashed the ace and king of hearts and ruffed a third round of the suit.

When it turned out that this had accounted for all the hearts except for dummy's nine, the Professor entered dummy with the jack of trumps, discarded a club on that last heart and conceded two club tricks to his unfortunate opponents.

Railway in Alaska Is Winding One

By JULES LOH

AP Newsfeatures Writer
HURRICANE GULCH, Alaska (AP)—The blue and gold train, named the Aurora, inched around the blind curve of the mountain and rolled ever so cautiously onto the spindly trestle.

Below, 300 feet, a turquoise creek rippled between banks of alabaster ice etched with the nervous paw prints of small creatures. Off to the west Mt. McKinley's pink-white crags, loftiest in the hemisphere, pressed against a cobalt sky. To the north haughty Dall sheep raised their curled horns at the train's approach and glowered in silent disapproval from their lambing grounds across a steep canyon.

Chuck Cameron remarked, "We're about halfway."

Halfway? Cameron, the engineer, explained that Hurricane Gulch was about halfway between Anchorage and Fairbanks, the two passenger terminals of the Alaska Railroad, 356 miles apart.

Had he wished to refer to its psychological distance from the world's turmoil and hatreds from Parrot's Beak and Kent State and Wall Street, he undoubtedly would have said all the way.

In truth the Alaska Railroad travels another world. Its riders experience onh serenity, beauty, thoughtfulness, peace.

And, at times, adventure. At one point on the route, where the train hugs the side of narrow, twisting Nenana Canyon south of Fairbanks, the tracks are laid on permafrost. With every summer thaw they move. Three years ago they slid three feet down the mountain side in one 12-hour period.

In winter, which is usually, snow crews must continually plow a furrow the length of the railbelt through drifts deep enough to hide a telegraph pole.

The railroad's main hazard, though, is one for which 60 years of experience has found no solution. Moose. Indeed, the train's popular Alaska name, applied unabashedly by one and all, is the Moose Gooser.

The humor of the nickname conceals the tragic truth that each year the train kills hundreds of the huge creatures.

Orrin Nichols, a conductor, has been with the Alaska Railroad 30 years and is still sickened by the annual slaughter. Once he and a coworker went so far as to whack a moose on the rump with a snow shovel to chase him away.

In these days of vanishing passenger trains the Alaska Railroad, snaking through America's last great wilderness, recalls a bygone era when a pioneer's only link with civilization was a thin ribbon of iron.

Here that is still the case. Its timetable lists 10 station stops and 39 official flag stops but the train will stop anywhere to take aboard or discharge a passenger.

The 356-mile trip takes 12 hours, assuming few unscheduled stops and no moose on the track, which means the train averages 30 miles an hour.

The pace is about right. Everybody has time to enjoy the matchless scenery and to ponder the place names posted along the track even where there are no signs of a village or HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—"Ohio, Helps," said the tape recorder just before it self-destructed.

Your mission, should you decide to accept it, is to continue reading to find out what this is all about.

Listen as Peter Graves, the handsome, silver-haired star of Mission: Impossible explains. He has just returned from a tour of Australia and Japan, where the CBS-TV series is the top-rated show. Graves:

"On the show, the tape always starts, 'Good morning, Mr. Phelps.' Well, 'ohio means 'good morning' in Japanese, and because they can't pronounce the 'Ph' sound, Phelps turns out Helps."

The show and Pete are so popular in Japan that the police begged the network which shows the program not to announce the time of his arrival there. Everywhere he went, he was mobbed. Fortunately, Pete was not trying to hide, an impossibility in a country not noted for its tall people. With his height (6-4) and silver crown, he stood out like to know about," said Graves. "But we had gotten too much in a rut with South American dictators and East European strong men."

The show has a time change next season, to Saturdays at 7:30 p.m., and he feels this will bring the series an even greater audience.

Mission: Impossible has done for Pete what a lot of people have been hoping for him—instant recognition in his own right. Prior to this series, he made Fury films for five years and did a series in Australia, Whiplash, which is now achieving great popularity there in its third rerun. He also had a big role in the film "Stalag 17." But he was still identified as Jim Arness' brother.

Ironically, Pete was up for the Gunslinger role which brought his brother a 16-year

ANOTHER "WHAT IS A . . . ?"

Dear Helen: You've had just about every "What Is A . . . ?" under the sun except mine.

WHAT IS A FAMILY?

A family is a group of close relatives that go through all sorts of hectic things together. A family is when the bills pile sky high and Mom and Dad are worried sick, but you still get that beautiful formal you wanted for the Senior Prom.

A family is when Mom yells at you to get your dirty socks out of the closet. Or when you pay your sister 25 cents for cleaning your room, and get grounded because SHE did such a lousy job.

A family is when Dad whales into your brother for getting his new screwdriver stuck in his bedroom wall (he was trying to make a socket to plug in his radio next to his bed). Or when Mom finds out her best sauceman was used to mix gasoline and oil for his home-made go-cart. Poor Bub!

It's when you ruin your $16.00 shoes and Mom swears she won't ever buy you any more, but the very next day she comes home with two pairs, and a real cool skirt and sweater outfit. She'll probably tell you she got them on sale, but she really didn't.

A family is when you meet your first love and everyone "helps." Your sister makes you a dress that fits in all the wrong places but you tell her it's beautiful. But Dad slips you $25.00 to "buy something special."

Little Sister gets the giggles when you introduce him, and Mom is so flustered beforehand you'd think it was her first date. But somehow he feels right at home, and Dad ends up talking football to him—while you wait for 15 minutes!

A family is when Mom gives you a home permanent to save money and it turns out looking like a Garfunkel special. So it costs twice as much to have it straightened and styled at the shop, but nobody says "I told you so"—out loud.

A family is when the kids get threatened with permanent grounding because they ate Mom's beautiful creation for the bridge club, which they found loose in the refrigerator. But you're all laughing about it by next week.

A family is when everyone laughs, cries and loves together. Once in a while they're hard to live with, but you sure can't live without 'em!—CAROLYN from XENIA, OHIO

P.S. If my English teacher sees this I might get an extra-credit "A", Helen.

Honor Night Is Horror for Chance

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dean Chance Night turned into a nightmare for the Cleveland right-hander with his Indians' teammates acting like strangers and the New York Yankees getting all the gifts.

Chance, obtained by the Indians from Minnesota over the winter, was the recipient of a welcome home night from his friends in his hometown of Wooster, Ohio, but lasted only three innings as the Yankees whipped the Indians 7-4 Friday night.

The 28-year-old Chance, was ripped for three first inning runs, including a two-run homer by Roy White but was victimized by a leaky Cleveland defense in the third when the Yanks added three more runs on three errors.

In other American League games, Baltimore ripped Boston 7-4, California edged Minnesota 3-2, Oakland nipped Chicago 9-8, Detroit edged Washington 3-2 and Kansas City thumped Milwaukee 6-3.

In the National League, Montreal downed Pittsburgh 6-3, Chicago turned back New York 6-4, St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 6-3, Cincinnati stopped Houston 5-2, Atlanta stopped Los Angeles 1-0 and San Francisco walloped San Diego 9-4.

In all the Indians made five errors. All three third-inning runs off Chance, 1-4, who was rocked for eight hits in his brief stint, were unearned.

The Yanks, on the other hand, "were great defensively," Dark said. Gene Michael (Yankee shortstop) made three plays that were on the verge of being truly great.

Winner Fritz Peterson struggled to his sixth victory against two defeats but needed sixth-inning relief from Jack Aker. Tony Horton had a solo homer for the Indians.

Boog Powell's 12th homer of the season broke a sixth-inning deadlock and the Orioles added a pair in the eighth on hits by Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson. Powell added a pair of doubles while George Scott ripped a homer and two doubles and Tony Conigliaro stroked four straight hits for the Red Sox.

Ken McMullen and Jim Spencer drilled home runs as the Angels snapped Minnesota's winning streak at seven and edged to within one-half game of first place in the West.

McMullen and Spencer each connected off loser Jim Perry, 6-3 with the eventual winning run coming across on left-hander Clyde Wright's seventh inning single. Wright, 6-2, needed relief help in the eighth from Paul Doyle, who surrendered a solo homer to Rick Renick.

Felipe Alou's two-run double enabled the A's to tie the White Sox at 8-8 in the eighth inning and moments later Alou scored the winner as Chicago's right fielder John Matias dropped Don Mincher's fly ball.

The A's overcame an 8-1 Chicago lead with four-run rallies in the sixth and eighth innings. Chicago had a six-run first, capped by Ed Herrmann's three-run homer and Carlos May added a two-run belt in the fourth.

Willie Horton's two-run double in the third inning, following Mike Epstein's costly error, helped the Tigers gain their victory over the Senators. Al Kaline drove in the deciding run with a seventh-inning sacrifice fly while Bernie Allen had a solo homer for the Senators.

Bob Oliver drove in a pair of runs with a bases-loaded single and scored two tallies in the Royals' triumph, Mike Walton, the Brewers hard-hitting outfielder, drew five straight bases on balls.

Insurance Rates Up on Sports Cars
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Allan W. Horne said Thursday he had rejected an application for automobile insurance rate increases that would have averaged about 20.7 per cent for each private passenger car.

Oregon has a total area of 96,981 square miles.

Merritt Is Hurling Duel Winner

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
The duel in the Dome didn't quite measure up to its billing, but Jim Merritt will settle for the same finish all summer long.

Merritt, Cincinnati's gifted left-hander, and Houston fireballer Larry Dierker, put 8-2 records on the line in an eyeball-to-eyeball pitching confrontation at the Astrodome Friday night.

The Reds battered Dierker for 11 hits in seven innings, but Merritt weathered 10 in going the distance for a 5-2 victory that made him the first nine-game winner in the majors this season.

The victory, coupled with Los Angeles' 1-0 loss to Atlanta, gave the Reds a 6 1/2-game bulge over the second place Dodgers in the National League West. San Francisco slugged San Diego 9-4; the Chicago Cubs topped the New York Mets 6-4; St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 6-3 and Montreal whipped Pittsburgh 6-3 in other NL action.

In the American League, Baltimore downed Boston 7-4; the New York Yankees beat Cleveland 7-4; Detroit edged Washington 3-2; California nipped Minnesota 3-2; Oakland outscored the Chicago White Sox 9-8 and Kansas City trimmed Milwaukee 6-3.

Merritt struck out six on the way to his third consecutive victory and eighth in his last nine decisions as the Reds handed Houston its fourth loss in a row.

"They just hit my mistakes," said the Houston ace, who struck out eight but was hit freely before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. His earned run average soared to 3.08 while Merritt's dipped to 2.60.

Tony Perez and rookie Bernie Carbo each socked Dierker's mistakes for homers as the Reds overcame an early 1-0 deficit. Perez, ending an 0-for-11 famine, touched off a three-run Cincinnati burst in the fourth with his 14th homer of the year. Carbo's seventh homer, a tape-measure shot with the bases empty in the sixth, wound up the scoring.

Pat Jarvis stopped Los Angeles on five hits and Hank Aaron drove in the Braves' run with a third-inning single off rookie Sandy Vance.

Felix Millan's single, also in the third, was the only other hit off Vance in the seven innings he pitched.

Ken Henderson's second grand slam homer of the season, an eighth inning shot off Tom Dukes, wrapped up the Giants' victory over San Diego. Catcher Dick Dietz, who committed two run-costing passed balls in the first inning, bounced back with a two-run homer in the fifth that sent the Giants ahead to stay.

Jim Hickman delivered three runs with a homer and double as the Cubs subdued the Mets behind Jim Colborn's one-hit relief pitching over the final 4 1-3 innings.

Julian Javier snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth with a three-run double, carrying the Cardinals past Philadelphia. The Phillies had tied the game in the seventh on Johnny Briggs' two-run triple.

Mack Jones' two-run homer and a two-run triple by Jim Fairey helped Montreal build a 6-1 lead behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Stoneman.

Woman Pro Racks Up 6 Birdies

Ring Not Ready for Slav Fight

By CARLO BASSI

UMAG, Yugoslavia (AP) — Less than 43 hours before world middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy squares off in a title fight against Tom Bethea of New York, the boxing arena still isn't finished.

Neither the promoters nor the fighters' managers were speculating on a postponement of the bout. Observers believed there was a good chance that barring unforeseen interruptions, the 60 workmen would complete the open-air arena in time.

Another problem was ticket sales for the 7,000-seat arena. Asked how sales were going, one ticket seller shook his head sadly and said, "Not too well."

More than 1,000 tickets, it was reported, remained unsold. Promoters were counting on a last-minute flurry of buying from Italians living in or near Trieste, Benvenuti's hometown. The fight will be televised back to the United States via satellite and will be seen nationally on the Wide World of Sports, ABC, 5 p.m., EDT.

Organizational problems of the match did not appear to worry the boxers, both of whom declared themselves in top shape and confident of victory.

Bethea, 26, who has never before fought 15 rounds, said he was fully prepared to go the distance but did not think he would need 15 rounds to whip Benvenuti.

The American, who stopped Benvenuti on a technical knockout in the eighth round of a non-title fight in Melbourne, Australia, in March, commented, "I have no special tactics to use. I'll just climb into the ring and punch him the whole match."

The 32-year-old Nino said he was in much better shape than he was for his loss in Melbourne, where he claimed Bethea had broken his rib.

Sawchuk Safely Out of Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Sawchuk, veteran backup goalie for the New York Rangers hockey club, was reported out of danger today after surgery at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Sawchuk, 40, entered the hospital April 29 to have his gall bladder removed.

No announcement was made of Sawchuk's admittance. He was on the "critical" list until Thursday.

Sawchuk, one of hockey's all-time great goaltenders, starred with the Detroit Red Wings in the 1950s and had a five-year stretch in which he permitted fewer than two goals a game.

Emile Francis, the Rangers' general manager and coach, said the surgery would not necessarily prevent Sawchuk from returning to hockey next year.

Platooning Gives Players Breather

By TOM SEAVER

NEW YORK—(NEA)—During the off-season, one of the questions that popped up often concerned platooning. In view of the Mets' success with platooning players, people asked, why do so many other teams in baseball still use the same eight players, every day?

It was a good question, considering that the Mets did more platooning last year than any other team in the National League.

To start with, I think the practice of platooning goes a bit deeper than just the abilities of the players involved. One of the big reasons platooning becomes necessary is because of the schedule—I don't feel there are too many players in the game today who can play every day over an exhausting 162-game season and not get tired.

That was, I feel, one of the problems with the Cubs last year. They were tired. Leo Durocher isn't one for platooning much and if you saw the Cubs at the end of last season, you could just tell they were dragging. Don Kessinger, for one, looked simply exhausted.

The way baseball is set up today, with teams scattered 3,000 miles apart, makes it more difficult for a player to play every day. Twenty years ago, for example—in 1949—you didn't have teams in Los Angeles and San Francisco and a team didn't have to endure those long road trips which wear every player down.

We had a road trip last year that was so typical of what I'm talking about. We flew from New York to Los Angeles—3,000 miles—then from Los Angeles to Houston—another 1,500 miles—then to San Francisco—another 1,500 miles—and finally back to New York—3,000 miles more. The whole trip covered 9,000 miles in a week and a half.

Now a lot of players can be in the lineup every day, but the major problem is maintaining their consistency. I know that Gil Hodges feels that, in order for a player to be consistent, he has to have a rest once in awhile. And nobody can really argue with his thinking, considering the success we had with platooning last year.

Last season, Gil platooned regularly at five positions—at first base with Ed Kranepool and Donn Clendenon, at second base with Al Weis and Ken Boswell, at third base with Ed Charles and Wayne Garrett, in right field with Art Shamsky and Ron Swoboda, and behind the plate with Jerry Grote and J. C. Martin. The only players who went every day were Cleon Jones in left, Tommie Agee in center, and Bud Harrelson at shortstop.

From a pitching standpoint, the problem of facing a platooned lineup isn't as complex as most people think. Of course, it is more difficult for a right-handed pitcher to face a lineup dominated by left-handed hitters, but the great equalizer is the screwball.

Warren Spahn proved that a long time ago. He was a left-hander, of course, but his screwball broke away from right-handed hitters and, when his screwball was working, right-handed hitters didn't give him any more of a problem than left-handed hitters did. Tug McGraw of the Mets, for another, has a good screwball and pitches well to left-handed hitters.

If there are any drawbacks to platooning, I would think they involve the player and his individual ego. Every player in the major leagues wants to be out there every day and, let's face it—a player who is being platooned just doesn't get the recognition an everyday player gets. But that also brings up the question of just who is a player playing for—himself, or his team?

I'm sure Art Shamsky, for example, would like to be playing every day, but Art is like all the platooned players on the Mets—he does what is best for the team and if he is going to be platooned, he accepts the fact and gives his best whenever he is out there.

I remember a discussion I had last year with Jeff Torborg, the catcher for the Dodgers. He said he didn't particularly want to leave Los Angeles, but he'd sure like to be playing every day. He said if there was one problem with being a platooned player, it was that it was easy to become discontented while sitting on the bench.

To be perfectly honest, I think there is only one player in the entire National League who is capable of playing every day and remaining effective as both a hitter and a fielder.

Who else can it be but Pete Rose?

Another Nutty Law Proposed

If a law proposed in the Georgia Legislature were to be passed, tickets to music events in the state would carry this warning: "Caution: Excessive loud noise may damage future hearing."

According to Rep. McKee Hargett, the legislation is "needed" because some of today's rock music can cause serious injury to the inner ear.

This item surely deserves a place in that thick volume entitled "Nutty Laws I've Known" by John Q. Public. (What next—sound level governors on radios?) But it is not so funny when it is viewed as a typical example of our whole approach to the problems of modern living.

No one is forced to attend a rock concert any more than he is forced to smoke. Yet Congress spends months arguing about a warning label on cigarette packages—while, at the same time, subsidizing the tobacco industry with your tax money.—Gastonia (N.C.) Gazette

Not Quite So Bright

The price of progress is reflected in a negative way through the report of a congressional committee which has been studying the effects of detergents on environment.

Some years ago, phosphates were introduced into detergents to give a "whiter and brighter" look to the family wash. This no doubt spruced up the family's appearance, but it played havoc with the nation's streams and lakes.

Algae thrive on phosphates and soon come to the point of clogging bodies of water. Dead algae use up the oxygen in the water, with the result that fish suffocate. All in all, according to the congressional inquirers, what starts out as a cleansing agent winds up making a gosh-awful mess.

Progress? No. Pollution? Yes.—Columbia (S.C.) State

Open At Own Risk

The President's postal reform plan is already coming under fire and one of the questions raised is why a higher rate increase was not proposed for so-called junk mail. Under the proposal, junk mail would cost the sender an average of about two cents more per item.

Assistant Postmaster General James W. Hargrove explained that any sharper increase would make it just about as economical for such mail to be sent first class, in which case it would get preferred handling.

So maybe the only deterrent to junk mail to so require a warning to be stamped on each envelope: "Caution: Reading This Piece of Mail Could Be Wasteful of Your Time."—Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal.

Dangers Everywhere

Add to the list of potentially hazardous activities: serving as a pallbearer. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has held that a pallbearer who was injured when a coffin handle broke was a "user" of the coffin in the legal sense. As such, he was entitled to invoke implied warranty against the wholesaler.

The case points up the fact that man is never completely safe anywhere, any time. Except of course, when he is the "user" of a coffin in the generally accepted sense.—Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch.

Memorial Day Honors Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ordered American flags to fly at half-staff all of Memorial Day as a special tribute to the men who have died in Vietnam.

Normally, the flag is at half-staff until noon on Memorial Day, then is flown for the remainder of the day at full staff.

But, Nixon said in his proclamation, the "tragic struggle in Vietnam" requires a marked tribute. "It is not enough to express our gratitude to the heroic dead by thought and prayer and special reverence on Memorial Day.

The proclamation expressed the hope for a more fitting tribute of "a peaceful world, free of the destructive conflicts that have plagued man's history."

2 Big Grape Growers Sign With Union

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — In the first major breakthrough in a five-year California table grapes labor dispute, two large growers have agreed to two-year contracts with Cesar Chavez' union.

"I felt it's time we stopped thinking with our hearts and started thinking with our heads," one of the growers, Anthony Bianco, said simply after the agreement was announced Thursday. "We just want some peace."

The two signers—Bianco's Bianco Fruit Corp. of Fresno and the Disposito Co. of Tulare, owned by Bruno Disposito—produced 80 million of the 718 million pounds of fresh grapes grown in California in 1969.

Chavez, who organized a nationwide boycott of table grapes to gain union recognition, told a news conference the contracts were "very moderate as to terms."

But he said he was hopeful they would bring "a measure of peace to the grape industry."

The contracts call for vineyard workers to receive $1.75 an hour as a minimum wage, plus a 25-cent-per-box incentive rate. They also will get 12 cents an hour in fringe benefits.

The second year of the contract provides for a $1.90 minimum hourly wage.

Top precontract wage was about $1.65 an hour plus 15 cents a box.

They were the first contracts negotiated by Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee in the San Joaquin Valley, where most of the nation's table grapes are grown.

G. & F. May Sell Surplus Property

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission has authority to sell any property it does not need, the attorney general's office said today.

The funds would be deposited in the Game Protection Fund with the state treasurer.

Andrew H. Husley, commission director, asked for the opinion.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Don R. Rebsamen quoted Amendment 35 to the state Constitution, which sets out that fees, monies or funds arising from all sources by the operation and transaction of the commission shall be expended by the commission in its proper functions.

Rebsamen said nothing was found in the amendment or the statutes imposing any restriction on the mechanics of the sale.

In another opinion, the attorney general's office said the city of Springdale does not have to pay county taxes on its industrial area.

Purcell Says He'll Lead Primary

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell predicts that he will lead the Democratic primary for governor and that if there is a runoff, he will win.

Purcell is one of two candidates who have filed for the office. Three others have announced for the Democratic primary.

Purcell said in an interview, he would announce his campaign manager early next month. Purcell also said one of his supporters, Mayor Andy Summerville of Traskwood (Saline County) has brought a surplus passenger bus and converted it into a traveling office for him.

Purcell said he planned to spend some time on the bus, but he said the bus will be traveling all the time, manned by volunteer workers.

"I am going to have to travel faster around the state than the bus can carry me, so I will be using planes a lot," Purcell said. He said friends are volunteering the use of planes.

Arkansas River Bill Enlarged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Public Works Committee has approved a House-passed bill to increase the Arkansas River basin authorization by about $89 million.

Such increases are periodic and allow for work to continue on the various projects in the river basin.

The total estimated cost of the Arkansas River basin development program now is $1.3 billion but the authorization ceiling is $1.2 billion and appropriations to date are near the $1.2 billion figure.

Army Engineers, therefore, had requested an additional authorization of $89,112,000 to carry work through 1971.

They said the authorization would be allocated among projects as follows:

Arkansas River bank stabilization $8.3 million; Dardanelle lock and dam, Ark., $788,000; navigation locks and dams, $46.1 million; Oologah reservoir, Okla., $479,000; Osage lock and dam, Ark., $13 million; Kerr lock and dam, Okla., $5.5 million; Webber Falls lock and dam, Okla., $13.5 million; six projects for recreation development $1.2 million.

Mail Hike Vote Due on Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is expected to vote Monday on a postal reform bill that would give the Nixon administration authority to boost first class mail rates from six to eight cents.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said Friday the compromise bill has won tentative White House support and the panel would vote on it Monday. But he added that many changes could be made before final enactment.

McGee said the bill includes these features:

— Authority for the administration to raise first class letter rates from six to eight cents—a 33 per cent increase. This, however, can be accomplished only if the administration first enacts a 33 per cent hike in second class (newspapers and magazines) and third class (chiefly advertising material).

— An additional 8 per cent pay hike for the 725,000 postal employees. A six per cent pay increase for postal and other government workers has already been approved by Congress.

— Creation of an independent agency run by a nine-member board of governors named by the President to administer the Post Office Department. The board would select a postmaster general who would no longer be a Cabinet member.

— Authorize the President to name a five-member commission to fix postal rates.

— Permit the new agency to work out collective bargaining agreements with postal unions.

Nixon reportedly favors the first class mail rate increase to help pay the largest part of the $1.5 billion annual deficit expected for the department in fiscal 1971.

The pay raise for postal employees would cost an estimated $538 million during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Nixon originally asked for a first class letter stamp increase to 10 cents.

McGee said the Senate bill must first be approved by the full committee before going to the Senate floor. If approved, it would then be worked over in a Senate-House conference committee.

Best Case Dismissed by Judge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Circuit Judge Warren E. Wood of Little Rock said Thursday that his court lacked jurisdiction in the state Racing Commission's contempt petition against James R. Best Jr. and dismissed the petition.

The commission had subpoenaed Best to testify in the probe of Southland Racing Corp., but the former state Revenue Department investigator had refused to testify.

The commission asked Wood Monday to hold Best in contempt of a Circuit Court order which had directed authorities to take Best in custody for testimony at the commission hearing Monday.

Wood said the commission's remedy apparently lay with the Pulaski County prosecutor "with the view of instituting charges against Mr. Best."

"When there is a total lack of jurisdiction in this court there can be no punishment for refusal to submit to interrogation by a state agency," Wood wrote in his opinion.

"The power to punish for contempt exists for the purpose of enabling a court to compel due decorum and respect in its presence and due obedience to its judgments, orders and process," he said.

"Hence, one court is not authorized to punish contempt against another court or tribunal unless the latter is an agency or a part of the punishing court," Wood said. "The Racing Commission is not a part of this court."

Wood said the legislature must specifically designate a state agency's power of contempt proceedings.

Spring Brings Many Thoughts, But This One's About Salads

By MARY ANITA LASETER

1 cup, salad dressing
1/2 cup, chopped celery
salt to taste
Wash shrimp and remove black veins. Chop eggs and pecans and mix all ingredients. Serve cold on lettuce leaf or on tomato wedges.

Jonesboro Med Center Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. ent David Rosenzweig reported George W. Jackson, director of the state Hospitals, said today 318, driving northward toward the opening of the East Arkansas Services Center in Jonesboro will be delayed.

The center, scheduled to open this fall, will be opened in early spring or later due to a strike of sheetmetal and steel workers, Jackson said.

Jackson said the strike by the workers in Little Rock had been settled, but he said workers at the center came from Memphis where the strike is continuing.

The center will contain a unit of the state hospital, a vocational rehabilitation unit, a State Police communications center, a special education facility and officers for the state Welfare Department, Health Department, Civil Defense and the state Forestry Division.

Leisure Site for Dardanelle

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Ozarks Regional Commission issued plans today for establishment of a National Leisure Institute on a 2,200-acre site on the Dardanelle Reservoir.

The commission said the land was acquired "through public and private sources."

The institute would utilize research facilities in helping individuals, businesses and communities plan for the change "from a work-oriented to a leisure-oriented society."

The institute would be a joint venture of the commission, Arkansas Tech at Russellville and the National Recreation and Park Association.

The purpose of the institute, according to the commission, would be to conduct research in leisure services and consumptive behavior, to serve as a demonstration and testing center for experimenting with various concepts and innovations to serve the leisure field, to provide consultative services and technical assistance to committees, public agencies, landowners and private industry, and to provide continuing education programs for public and private leaders dealing with leisure services.

Funds for the initial three years of operation are expected to be provided by foundations, private industry and individuals. The study report on the institute said the institute "should evolve into a self-sustaining facility."

The report said that the study of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders in 1968 indicated that one of the main reasons for violence has been a "lack of recreation opportunities."

The report said that as a starting point, a fulltime research leader, an education program leader, a publications director and a fieldworker will be needed.

The report said the institute would be a nonprofit corporation guided by a 11-member board of directors, consisting of the president and chairman of Board of Trustees at Arkansas Tech, the director and the federal chairman of the Ozarks Regional Commission, the president and the chairman of the board of the National Recreation and Park Association, and five members will be elected from participating foundations, private industry, public agencies and interested persons.

Vietnamese Hit Cambodia Rubber Farm

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese task forces launched a two-pronged thrust today into Indochina's biggest rubber plantation, the 70-square-mile Chup plantation in eastern Cambodia.

About 10,000 South Vietnamese troops and hundreds of tanks and armored personnel carriers pushed northward along Highway 15 and westward along Route 7 toward the plantation to smash a crack Viet Cong regiment said to be operating there.

The plantation is east of Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city.
